SOCIALIST LEADER SLAIN IN PARIS

Jean Leon Jaures Assassinated
While Dining in Bourse Restaurant.

SLAYER IS RESCUED FROM AN ANGRY CROWD

Says Deputy Betrayed Country—City
Is Warned Against Demonstrations.

PARIS, August 1.—Jean Leon Jaures, the noted socialist leader in the chamber of deputies, was assassinated today while dining in a small restaurant near the bourse. The assassin was arrested but refused to disclose his identity. Later he was identified as Raoul Villain, twenty-nine years of age, and said to be the son of a clerk of the civil court at Rheims.

The minister of the interior, Louis Malvy, on learning of the crime, left the meeting of the council and ordered preparations to be taken to prevent demonstrations.

M. Jaures was seated at a table near an open window, facing the Rue Montmartre, chatting with several socialist deputies and the editors of the L'Humanite. As though by prearrangement the curtain covering the window was lightly brushed aside and a hand holding a revolver was thrust through.

Assassin Is Rescued.

The reports of the shots startled the diners and passersby and the assassin was seized. His pocket was searched and a revolver was found. The police rescued him from the crowd, which shouted "Assassin! Death to the assassin!"

The body of the noted deputy was placed in a city conveyance, which, surrounded by weeping comrades and friends, proceeded to his home followed by a detachment of republican guards. There were shouts of "Vive Jaures!" by some in the crowd, with similar shouts and demonstrations in front of the office of the L'Humanite and in the boulevards when the news became generally known.

It is reported that the assassin first telephoned to the restaurant, which was a favorite dining place of M. Jaures, to ascertain if he was there.

Called Jaures Traitor.

Later the assassin declared: "If I have committed this act it is because Jaures betrayed the country in leading the campaign against the three-year military law. I believe one must punish traitors, and I believe my duty has been accomplished."

Villain declared he did not belong to the revolutionary or reactionary leagues, but simply acted of his own accord and decided to slay M. Jaures during the week. There also is a series of publications, not issued regularly, descriptive of agricultural statistical offices of the various countries of the world.

Tell Many Anecdotes of Him.

The whole of this great work is due very largely to the enthusiasm and zeal of Mr. Lubin, his friends declare. They tell many anecdotes of his early efforts toward the realization of the dream of his life, the International Institute, at the same time pointing out that these anecdotes are only amusing because in contrast to the great seriousness and nobleness of his aims.

When Mr. Lubin first went to Italy to seek the support of King Victor his friends in that country coached him through the difficulties of the journey. He impressed upon him or thought they did—just how one must dress and just what one must say. Mr. Lubin, however, during the journey, had a soft, wide-brimmed western hat, and his nearest friends say that he had a little of the success he has attained in Europe is due to the fact that Europeans find in him just exactly the ideal of an American.

The morning of the audience with the king Mr. Lubin was so intent on the fact that this was the great day of opportunity for him and his cherished dream—the International Institute of Agriculture—that he forgot to change his business suit for the one prescribed by his Italian friends. Pondering in his mind just how he was to proceed, he entered the palace. He entered and asked for the king. An attendant showed him into a chamber and he waited there for some time.

DAVID LUBIN VISIT TO AGRICULTURAL OFFICIALS

Founder of International Institute of Agriculture Outlines Work Being Done.

David Lubin of Sacramento, Cal., who has been permanent delegate of the United States to the permanent committee of the International Institute of Agriculture since its founding by him in 1905, visited Washington recently and outlined to the heads of the department the work the International Institute is now doing. Mr. Lubin's visit was known only to about a dozen men in the department, hence a great many of the officials of the department were surprised to find that he had been in the city.

Mr. Lubin is in this country at the present time for the purpose of making known his new project as to the regulation of ocean freight rates. It is a step which must come for the betterment of international agriculture, in the opinion of the founder of the institute, which makes it his business to look at agriculture from a world viewpoint and not from the viewpoint of any one nation.

Plans Ridiculed at First.

Mr. Lubin's visit to the city recalls to his many friends in the Department of Agriculture and elsewhere the struggles necessary before the International Institute became a reality. A successful business man of Sacramento, Mr. Lubin conceived the idea of a national institute, but, like Columbus, was laughed out of court with his project. The project was ridiculed at first.

Blow for Candy Lovers.

But here is the worst blow of all, for candy lovers: "The fat reducing patient must eliminate from his diet fats, starchy foods and sugar."

"Must sugar go?" weeps Gwendolyn; "This, candy is made out of sugar!"

"This, the fat, and pity 'tis 'tis true," says the Department of Agriculture specialists, in effect if not in words. "There is no royal road to slenderness. The patient must heartily, ruthlessly eliminate from his (and especially her) diet fats, starchy foods and sugar."

"Loss of flesh," declares the department, "is by no means a blessing if accompanied by loss of those dear, crinkly little chocolate, and those cute little peppermints, and those perfectly darling cake puddings!"

Might Eliminate Patient.

The schemes of promoters of "lose-your-fat-easy" methods are many and marvelous. The makers of one preparation assert that it will bring about the desired result by a process of elimination of foods without digestion. These people, it is said, guarantee the reduction of a pound a day. A preparation of this character, if it did what its makers claim for it, would probably eliminate any need for dieting in the future, so that the Department of Agriculture.

Another product, examination by Department of Agriculture specialists shows, consists principally of ordinary soap. The makers of this preparation claim that it will remove the fat wherever it may be in excess, so forth.

The cleverest scheme of all provides chemicals to be added to the water in which the patient is to bathe. These chemicals are of such a nature that they form a sort of curd in the water after the patient has bathed. This curd, the advertisement states, is fat and surplus issues removed from the body. Out!

Abandonment of the cemetery lying within the lines of 37th street west, known as the White's Tabernacle, No. 33, of the Ancient United Order of Sons and Daughters, Brethren and Sisters of Moses, is provided for by a bill pending in Congress, which has received a favorable report by the District Commission.

The cemetery was established in 1880 and the last interment was made July 25, 1910. Its owners desire to remove the remains from the site to some other place, and the Commissioners believe they should be permitted to do so, as experience has shown, they state, that cemeteries not in active use are soon neglected and become eyesores and, from an esthetic and sentimental standpoint, nuisances.

Present Law a Bar.

FOOD EXPERTS SCORE ANTI-FAT NOSTRUMS

Department Specialists Say None Can Meet Claims Without Injury.

If you are "crazy" about chocolates and "perfectly" with "over candies" of the same time have a tendency to be slightly, well—out, to put it mildly and politely, you had better beware. You had better "go slow" (not "slowly"). That's all the Department of Agriculture has to say about it—almost.

The department has recently been investigating so-called anti-fat "cures," in response to numerous inquiries relative to specific remedies.

As a result of tests to determine the efficacy of a number of alleged "nostroms," the department asserts that practically all such preparations are absolutely worthless. "In the knowledge of all drug specialists at the present time," it is declared, "there is no preparation that can be depended upon to reduce flesh in any marked degree without doing injury."

Specialists of the department declare that the only ways they know of safely to reduce flesh are rigid dieting and strenuous exercise, and those, to be effective, must be continued over a long period of time.

Under existing law bodies of persons dead of certain communicable diseases may not be interred, nor are graves permitted to be opened, nor are through application of the nearest relatives or legal representatives of the deceased. For this reason an act of Congress is required to permit the abandonment of the 37th street cemetery and the removal of the bodies interred there. Since the cemetery is maintained by a fraternal order there appears to be no objection, the Commissioners state, to its removal to some other place, and the bodies of those members who have been buried there to other property as may be established by the order, even though that cemetery be beyond the confines of the District of Columbia.

IN THE WORLD OF SOCIETY

Edgewater Golfer Eliminates Savyer From Amateur Championship.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., August 1.—James D. Standish, Jr., a youth from Detroit, will meet Charles Evans, Jr., of the Edgewater Club, Chicago, today in the final match of thirty-six holes for the western amateur golf championship. In the semi-finals yesterday Evans won from D. E. Sawyer of Wheaton, 2 up and 1 to play, while Standish, by holing a fifteen-foot putt on the home green, defeated Phil Stanton of Grand Rapids, 1 up.

Each struggle was sensational and both were in doubt until the players approached the clubhouse on their homeward grind.

Victory was almost within Standish's grasp when the thirty-sixth hole was played, when a brilliant effort by the Detroit golfer enabled him to tie the match and then win by a remarkable performance.

Bad Score for Evans.

Evans also had a bad score. He was four up when nine holes of the afternoon half of the match were finished, and then for the first time since the tournament began he lost successive holes. With his margin narrowed to 1 up, the struggle continued until the sixteenth green, where Evans sank a twenty-foot putt and won the hole 2 to 3. Sawyer still led at the seventeenth hole, but was halved and the match became history.

The forenoon half of the Evans-Sawyer match was the better played. Sawyer, with a 35, beat par by one stroke going out, and led Evans 1 up, "Chick" having a 38. Evans won the tenth and eleventh holes, came back in 35 and completed the round one up. Evans' medal card, 71, equaled his, while Sawyer took a 72. The forenoon 18 holes gave Standish a lead over Stanton. Standish played remarkable nerve in the afternoon. He lost the first hole, 6-3, but he took the second, 4 to 5, and repeated at the fourth. Stanton won the next hole, 3 to 4, a stroke better than par. Standish missed his putt to halve the sixth, while Stanton did likewise on the seventh. The next two holes were halved and Stanton was 2 up at the turn. The tenth and eleventh holes were won by Standish, 4 to 5, squaring the match. Each shot par found a nestling hole.

Each shot par found a nestling hole. The twelfth, while Stanton sank his third. Again the match was squared when Stanton missed a putt for a par four in the fourteenth. The long hole of the course, 242 yards, was won by Stanton, 5 to 6. Each counted four at the sixteenth, but the next hole was taken by the Detroit golfer, 4 to 5. Standish's long putt, which gave him victory, brought the match to a conclusion on the seventeenth green.

Pressure on Steamship Agencies to PARIS, August 1.—The pressure of Americans trying to get passage home was much greater yesterday than Thursday. The steamship agencies were busy answering inquiries. Bookings on all ships sailing at an early date appear to be full, except some on vessels of the less desirable lines.

Americans who do not wish to sail at once or who cannot get passage at an early date from a French port are going to Holland or Belgium and then to England, to prolong their vacations a little or to await the sailing of the steamers on which they hope to pass.
